

PARK FIELD "5" TO DYERSBURG FRIDAY

Several Cadets to Make Trip in Planes to Meet Stars of Dyer County in Basketball.

The Park field cadets' basketball team will journey to Dyersburg Friday for the purpose of playing with an all-star team being arranged by promoters of the basketball game.

The cadets have been training all winter and have yet to meet defeat, and are confident of retaining their 1000 percentage when they go up against the Dyer countyans. Several of the Park field cadets are making the trip in airplanes, three or four ships expected to be used by the players to make the journey. They will carry all paraphernalia in the ships and will land at the fairgrounds at Dyersburg, after doing a few stunts for the benefit of the Dyer countyans.

About ten men will make the trip, including the manager, Coach C. A. Steger, who is managing the team, and the following players: McArthur, Russell, Henson, Cameron, Sherry, Brown, Barnes, Ross and Clark. They will return to Memphis Saturday afternoon.

Former College Stars.

The Park field team is composed of former college stars, all of whom have been playing basketball for a number of years. They have perfected their game to a considerable degree and in the games they have played they have shown unlimited class.

J. R.'s Boy Winner

Of Free-For-All Stake in Field Trials

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 20.—J. R.'s boy, owned by Dr. T. H. Clark, of Columbia, Mo., and handled by Ed Farrington, of Leobach, Mo., won the free-for-all stake in the National Field Trials club's annual meeting here yesterday. The winner captures a purse of $100 and holds the championship for a year.

The work of the dog yesterday, while not so brilliant as he has been on the course, was good and the competition was very keen. Plenty of birds were found and the ground was in better condition than during the previous days of the week.

Yesterday's race closed the season for the National Field Trials club. The final entries for the free-for-all stake were J. R.'s boy, Harry Montross, Eugene Edges and Ed's boy. The preliminaries have been run Monday and Tuesday.

The derby and all-age stakes of this club were run the first week in January, the meeting having been recessed Jan. 15 for the benefit of the national championship at Grand Junction, Tenn.

Two Big Race Tracks To Change Hands In Ensuing Thirty Days

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 20.—An agreement was signed here last night by the Cincinnati, Ky., and the Douglas, Mo., tracks, to change hands in the ensuing thirty days.

The agreement sets forth the conditions of the sale and the prospective purchasers have agreed to make perfect their organization and make their payments. It was signed by State Senator Thomas C. McCreary and Judge Allen W. Young, representing former United States Senator John W. Cameron and Edward J. Sims, the principal underwriters of the Cincinnati track.

The purchase price for the two properties was not made public.

Big Jim Vaughn Is Again a Holdout And Returns To His Home

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Jim Vaughn is back in Kenosha, Wis., today after turning back a local National league contract as unattractive to terms.

The star pitcher of the Cubs said the sum offered was somewhat larger than that he received last year, but he felt his services in the 1931 contest warranted more than was offered.

Vaughn said he would continue at his job of skilled mechanic and play semiprofessional baseball as a side issue.

TWO TO JACKSONVILLE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The Brooklyn National league baseball team, as well as the New York Americans, will train here at Jacksonville, Fla., next spring, according to an announcement yesterday by President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club.

The teams, which will use different training fields, will play exhibition games on March 23, April 5 and 12 and possibly on the Sundays following these dates. The trip north will be made together, games being played at Jacksonville, Fla., and at cities in North and South Carolina to be selected later.

DEFER WESTERN MEETING.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 20.—The meeting in St. Joseph of the Western league club owners to elect a president to succeed C. W. Miller, formerly in France as a Knight of Columbus secretary, and to decide upon the length of the playing schedule, was postponed from Feb. 8 to Feb. 22. Tulsa will be formally admitted as a member of the league at this meeting.

HUGHEY HAS BIG SQUAD.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 20.—In a letter received here today, closing a deal for hotel accommodations, Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit team announced that 15 pitchers and catchers will arrive here on March 17 and the remainder of the team on the 24th for spring training.

BOSTON BRAVES SOLD.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—The sale of the controlling interest in the Boston National league baseball club to George Washington Grant for the last 10 years, the owner of a string of moving picture theaters in London, England, was announced today.

The Sporting Spotlight

By Bob Pigue

FROM the fan flock of Memphis comes many queries as to what the officials of the Tribe are doing in the way of getting together a ball club which will at least have a look-in at the sullen banner emblematic of the championship of the Southern association of baseball clubs.

The delay in naming a manager for the approaching campaign, despite the fact that it is taken for granted that Cy Barger will be the choice of the club owners, is not at all unusual.

Jack Dempsey Chosen to Fight Willard for Title

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 30.—Jack Dempsey will be Jess Willard's opponent in the approaching world's championship bout, said Tex Rickard, who was here last night en route to the oil fields.

The battle will be staged in some state legalizing such exhibitions and no effort will be made to run counter to the law. Rickard has bought some acreage at Ranger and is there today.

to take care of itself in its tussles with the seven remaining teams.

Watso has several good players listed for tryouts with the Chicks, and should be able to pick up three or four youngsters who can come through with the necessary class to make good on a Dixie Major ball team.

Some rich actor friends of John McGraw were anxious to buy the Giants, but they dabbled around until McGraw, Stenheim and McGuire laid down the cold coin and acquired the club. Now the actors are pined at McGraw and are accusing the giant leader of double-crossing them.

Honest Hank Gowdy, who is with the army of occupation in Germany, says he expects to be home in time to make the spring training trip with the Braves. Hank says while he likes the war game, he'd rather be killing off runners at second instead of the poor deluded devils who had little enough sense to try and lick the world.

John the Barber Reiser is thinking of other things these days besides shaving haircuts, sing and mangle. For Jack Dempsey, whom the tonsorial person has sought with all the ardor of an Italian Romeo, is about to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, and Reiser is still as far from managing the Terror as the moon.

Reiser has spent a mint of money in the courts trying to get control of Dempsey, with whom he says he has a contract, but it is still on the outside looking in, which is the reason he develops a six-cylinder headache every time he picks up a sport sheet and gets an eyeful of the approaching big mill.

BAKER AS A STICK UP.

Frank Baker, ex-home run king, last season with the New York Yanks, is again trying to hold up the New York team and threatens to jump to the Delaware County league unless he is given an extra large and luscious salary.

Baker threatened to play in the minor league before, but was taken seriously with the result that he made good his threat and was not listed in professional ball that year.

Manager Miller Huggins, who has been strongly counting on Baker to play third base and shut a few homers over the walls of American league stadiums, is working like a beaver trying to straiten the tangle in time for Baker to don the Yank scarves, for Huggins will be hard put to fill the Marylander's gubbers if he carries out his threat to leave the Yanks high and dry.

STYLE HINT.

Red noses are expected to go out of fashion next Jan. 1.

George Sisler has signed to play first base for the St. Louis Browns next season, which supplies Jimmy Burke with the well-known nucleus around which to build a real ball club.

A REAL DOUGHBOY.

Jess Willard never cooked a biscuit in his life, but there's no denying that as a dough maker he isn't half bad.

MERRITT A SAINT.

Howard Merritt, a saint, although he is still in the land of the living, is a regular class A ball club, and as soon as things open up he will head it to St. Paul and start conditioning for the approaching season.

Merritt, spending the winter in Memphis. He was sold to the Saints at the close of the Southern league season last June 25.

HOLDOUTS GONE.

Dixie managers are going to enjoy an unusual sensation this year. There will be no holdouts to be calmed and petted and talked sweet to. This bird, who formerly sat back in his home town and penned demands to the club owners, setting out just what he will accept and what he will not accept, is going to be conspicuous by his absence this season.

And there's a reason. There will be a flock of ball players available this season. The number of veterans will be cut down to seven, and it is natural to assume that many of the old-timers will feel that they must have more page on the park to play will be given permission to become financial octopi in some other line. The heart of the bigging a player to join a team are gone, and this season those who are dissatisfied with their lot will face the proposition of taking them or leaving them.

The club owners have been bowing and scraping to the ball players for many seasons. They have argued until they were black in the face with some

FROM TANK TO BASEBALL FLOPS PATSY, WHO IS READY TO AGAIN HANDLE BEARS

PAT FLAHERTY.

Handling one of Uncle Sam's tanks and managing a Southern league ball club are far removed from each other, but Pat Flaherty, last year's Mobile pilot, will make an effort to again handle baseball to replace what he has learned about the game.

Flaherty is highly regarded in Mobile as well as throughout the league. He is a pilot in the tank corps of Uncle Sam's tank killers for the past several months, and has been religiously studying the game.

When the Chattanooga stockholders decided to make a change and shift the burden of owning the Southern league club, Flaherty, who was then in the service, was called back to Mobile. He is a pilot in the tank corps of Uncle Sam's tank killers for the past several months, and has been religiously studying the game.
